Wild animals, even baby ones, have wild instincts. They need to be kept wild for their own survival. Licensed Wildlife Rehabilitators aim to rehabilitate animals and release them back into their natural habitat. They work with all types of creatures, including squirrels, rabbits, deer, skunks, opossum, bobcats, foxes, chipmunks, porcupines, birds of all kinds including hawks, eagles and owls, and more.

North Country Wild Care is a non-profit 501(c)3. Their membership consists of a network of home based Licensed Wildlife Rehabilitators and other volunteers located in Schenectady, Warren, Washington, Saratoga, Albany, Rensselaer, Montgomery, Fulton and Essex Counties, New York.

*NYFOA's mission is to promote sustainable forestry practices and improve private stewardship. NYFOA offers landowners the trusted and vetted resources they need for everyday best practices in forestry management. Our Southeastern Adirondack Chapter covers the Fulton, Hamilton, Saratoga, Warren, and Washington County region.
